American Grain Cereals

BY DAVID ANAKIE

The rate cutting in freights that seems to be prevalent at present on the Shanghai-Rangoon service has interfered with the placing of further orders by merchants in Shanghai with Rangoon rice exporting firms. The Conference rate from Rangoon to Shanghai is Rs. 19 per ton, while tramp steamers from the Burman port have been offering space at about Rs. 15 per ton.

The result of this is a confusion in the prices of Rangoon rice, landed in Shanghai, as offered by the Rangoon merchants. Those exporting houses in Rangoon that could load on tramp steamers here than the others. Although some business has been done during the week at $4.50 per picul the volume was not large owing to the fact that bigger space on the tramp vessels from Rangoon could not be secured. In consequence of this, the emergency in the offer has been as much as 40 to 45 cents per picul. A small business was also done at $4.70 with Rangoon, for the small mill grade.

Arrivals of the cereal during the past ten days into Shanghai averaged some 1,500 tons, comprising chiefly Saigon and some Siam. Stocks are low, being estimated at about 20,000 bags. Future business on a large scale depends to some extent on cheaper prices. The Chinese dealers are waiting for an opportunity to place orders when the markets abroad record lower prices. Trading in Rangoon rice for the moment is hampered by reason of the conflicting quotations received, and a great deal, it would seem, is dependent upon some stabilization in freight rates.

SAIGON RICE

As regards Saigon rice, buyers here are holding out for lower quotations. The present rate of $5.85 per picul for Saigon, equivalent to Ts. 4.88 per picul ex-wharf Shanghai, is above merchants' ideas. Rangoon rice is quoted on the Shanghai market at Rs. 9.10 per picul f.o.b. for small mill quality. Spot cargo of No. 2 Saigon rice has been sold here at Ts. 4.65.

Heavy arrivals of Saigon and Rangoon rice are expected within the next few weeks, and this in all probability, may be preventing some Chinese from placing further orders in the producing markets. There seems no doubt that purchasing will be renewed with vigor in the near future by reason of the fact that the Chekiang Province is still badly in need of supplies. The Saigon market is reported weak, and this is presumably due to the falling off in the Shanghai demand, which has in previous weeks exerted some influence upon the trend of prices in Saigon.

Japan, which at the end of last year and the beginning of this sold large quantities of Saigon, Siam and Rangoon rice to Shanghai, has by reason of the economic depression in that country, has now turned a purchaser. Supplies in Japan have been going down badly, necessitating buying from Rangoon, Saigon and Bangkok at prices higher than the merchants sold to Shanghai. The first contracts for Rangoon rice have just been concluded by Japanese merchants with Rangoon exporters, some 5,000 tons being already contracted for shipment April-May. Japanese prices are higher than those obtaining in the producing centers, so it would appear the chances of heavier importations into Japan are assured. Foreign rice in Kobe on March 12 amounted to 709,539 bags, a decrease of 17,519 bags since March 1.

MAY BUY U. S. RICE

With a probably heavier demand by Japan and Shanghai upon Burma, Siam and Indo-China rice it seems likely that we shall witness the importation of Californian rice into Shanghai, South China and Japan. It is possible if

SMILES FROM THE MIXED COURT

BY J. L. BUTTS

Shakespeare or some other observing, or maybe chastened, gent years and years ago published some pertinent and gratuitous advice about the inadvisability of intervention by outside agents in any instance of purely domestic strife. The advice, as said, was freely proffered to the world at large long years ago, its soundness has been attested times without count and one might think endorsement of the proposition unanimous. Nevertheless, ever and anon, a convert is recorded. Tsang Ching-sz joined the majority yesterday.

The conversion of Tsang occurred at the Mixed Court by the following process: Firstly, there appeared in the witness box Sikh Police Constable No. 244 and deposed that on the evening previous, while pursuing his duties along Seward Road, he had heard a loud outcry and on investigation had found Tsang and Woo Ang-sung grappling with each other before a shop door, while a copious flow of blood coursed across the features of the latter from a vicious looking cut on his forehead. The wound, Woo declared, has been inflicted by Tsang. So the witness had taken Tsang to the station.

Woo, with bandaged brow, arose to take up the story. Shortly before the advent of the policeman on the scene, he said, he and his wife had been standing at the threshold of their shop, engaged in a purely personal quarrel regarding the conduct and upbringing of their child. The quarrel was proceeding in an enthusiastic and satisfying style when the accused came along, paused to view it and then interposed. Releasing Mme. Woo's confure and pushing her back against the counter, the witness testified, the intruder declared that the business did not concern him—Tsang—and that his presence at this critical stage in the argument was exceedingly unnecessary. Woo then turned to take up the thread of connubial controversy, but Tsang, instead of obliterating himself, had stooped, picked up a large chunk of firewood and whanged it resoundingly against the husband's scion. And Woo exhibited the weapon, a sizeable and hefty-looking hunk of wood, and rubbed his bandage reminiscently.

With a complacent look at Mme. Woo, who was in court, Tsang took the stand to vindicate himself. It was true, he said, that his attention had been claimed by the unseemly wrangle going on between the parents Woo. Such a scene outraged his sense of the fitness of things and tended to modify his ideas on the married state, so he stopped and tried to reason with the pair. Woo, he continued, reacted to this by seizing him by the throat, while Mme. Woo, taking advantage of the distraction, snatched up the billet and

Suit Over Alleged Damaged Hair Ends In American Court With Defence Testimony

Drug Company Denies Their Preparation Caused
Mrs. Ren To Lose Locks—One Witness
Shampoos Self In Court

Judge Charles Sumner Lobingier in the United States Court for China yesterday afternoon reserved his decision in the case in which Mrs. Kitty Ren is suing the American Drug Company for Ts. 20,000 damages on the allegation that she lost two-thirds of her hair and that the rest turned streaked as a result of using a shampoo prepared by the drug concern.

Judge Lobingier took the case under advisement at the conclusion of the testimony of a number of witnesses called by Mr. Sidney Moss of Haskell and Moss, counsel for the drug firm, and without argument by either side. Mr. F. J. Schuhl, counsel for Mrs. Ren, was given 10 days in which to file a brief, including his argument and the question of the law involved, and Mr. Moss was given three weeks in which to file his brief. A judgment is not expected for six weeks.

An outstanding feature in yesterday proceedings was a unique presentation of evidence by the defence. Mr. Moss acted as impres-

Fashion Show At Carlton Next Week

A fashion show that will knock your eye plumb out is to be held on Wednesday and Thursday evenings of next week at the New Carlton. Last year there was a fashion show at the Town Hall, but this one is to be much more spiffy.

The darlinest gowns will be displayed! Also the killingest hats! All the shops in town are working day and night preparing with fingers agile and deft.

The show this year will be in a much better setting than ever before. A platform is to be erected in the middle of the ball room floor, and the women who display the gowns will descend the steps leading to the ball room, walk across the floor, and then ascend the platform, on which two dazzling spot lights will play. Between displays the orchestra will play for dancing.

Altogether about a dozen of Shanghai's prettiest and best known women will wear the gowns and hats, all of which will be beautiful, and some of which, according to Manager Ellis, of the New Carlton, will be startling.

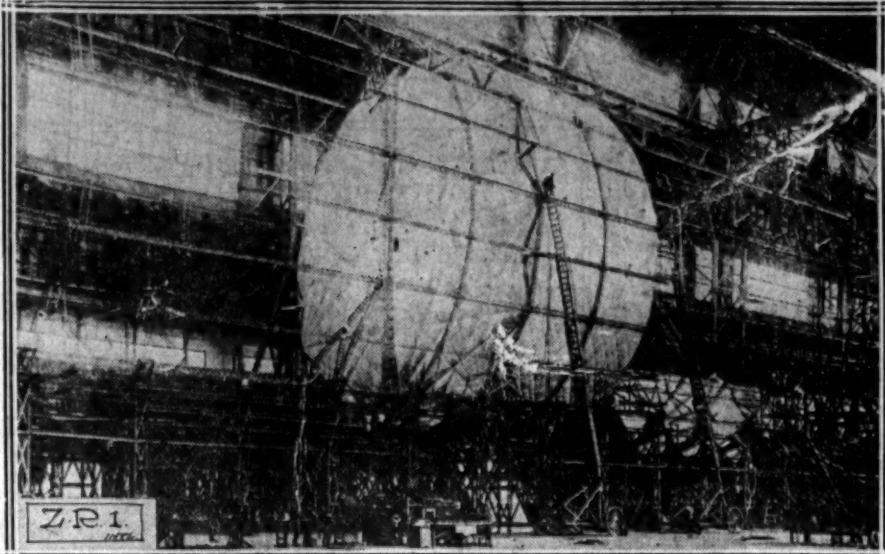

Ellis is all set up over this show. Last night, in a burst of eloquence, he said it would be the grandest fashion show ever held in the East, Near East or Far East, which takes in a considerable portion of the map.

"It sure will be a grand show," he said. "That just about covers it, hey? As a matter of fact, if these long skirts hadn't come back into fashion it could be said that the favorite Ellis adjective covers more than the gowns will."

But how could one say that, when there isn't an ankle in sight any more?

(French Wireless through Reuter)
Paris, March 21.—New events in the occupied territory increase the impression of a general relaxation among the civil population and officials. The question is being asked whether it would not be a mistake to consider that the change of tactics is a prelude to capitulation.

The burgomaster of Kupferdreh has given assurances that an aggression against a French soldier committed on the night of Monday to Tuesday was an isolated not which must be imputed to a fanatic and the responsibility should not be attributed to the population, whose attitude was very satisfactory.

It is reported from Essen that the French provost has arrested a certain number of notables of the town to hasten the discovery of the assassin of the French soldier Schmidt. The arrests have caused no excitement and the town is very calm, in spite of the official declarations to the contrary from Berlin.

There is a certain unrest reported amongst the workers, particularly in the Langendreer district, which is caused solely by the constant increase in the cost of living.

At Cologne following the attack on Mr. Smets, who is a British subject, searches have been carried at the residences of notables, known for their Nationalist and anti-Allies sentiments.

With regard to the regulated mine although the seizure of coke continues, the German miners have resumed work at Blumenthal.

The number of trains running is showing an appreciable increase over the average for preceding days with 281 trains covering 28,000 kilometers.

The Belgian authorities have discovered at Lelderich, near Duisburg, 18 locomotives concealed in the interior of a private establishment.

The Chief of Staff of the Japanese Navy has arrived at Dusseldorf to visit the Ruhr basin. He is accompanied by other Japanese officials.

GREY PLEADS FOR STRONGER AIR SERVICE FOR BRITAIN

Government Soon To Tell Result Of Deliberations

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 21.—In the House of Lords today the Earl of Birkenhead, Viscount Haldane, Viscount Long and Baron Carson laid grave stress on the weakness of the Air Force and contrasted it with that of other Powers.

Viscount Grey emphasised the increasing uncertainty of the situation in Europe and the danger of fresh competition in armaments, particularly aerial armaments. He said that, unless a greater sense of security came about, it would be impossible for any Government to hold its position if it could not show that we were in a position with regard to aircraft to secure the defence of the vital parts of the country against any possible attack.

Replying, the Duke of Sutherland, Under-Secretary of State for Air, said that the foundations laid were sufficient to support a force twice or thrice the size of the present one.

The Marquess of Salisbury assured the House that the Government was pursuing the matter without intermission and he hoped that it would be possible shortly to announce the result of its deliberations.

RADIO CORP. AND BELL SYSTEM BUY HAMMOND DEVICES

Improvements Designed By Engineers To Be Exploited

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS
Washington, March 21.—It was announced here today that the Radio Corporation of America and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company (the Bell system) had purchased all the wireless devices developed during the war by John Hays Hammond and his associates. These include devices for operating aerial and marine torpedoes; steering warships without personnel, and for transmitting power by radio.

It is announced that the government will retain an option on all these devices, for military and naval use and for experimental purposes. The services of Mr. Hammond and his assistants, including some of the ablest engineers in America, will be retained by the Radio Corporation.

An outstanding feature of the Hammond devices is that the secrets involved can be retained by the corporation.

'TIMES' MAN SEES NEED FOR EARLY ACTION IN CHINA

Washington Conference Proposals Insufficient, He Says

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 21.—The Peking correspondent of the Times, in his concluding article on the financial crisis in China, considers that the situation demands earlier attention than is possible by awaiting the recommendations of the Foreign Commission proposed at the Washington Conference to formulate the conditions under which the two and a half percent surtax should be granted. Alternatively he suggests that the interested Powers should appoint a small committee of experts to the Commission; otherwise the representatives of the nine Powers would assemble in Peking and find themselves confronted by a deluge of figures and a tissue of complicated issues with which they would be totally unable to deal until they had lived in the country for years.

The correspondent does not disguise the possibility, if the mess is cleared up and the Chinese Government given a fresh start, that renewed insolvency may succeed. Any safeguards can only hinder the tendency to revert to bankruptcy. If the Chinese persist in taking the downward path, the foreigner will have to run this risk.

Film Company To Make Pictures Here

The Peacock Film Company, a $25,000,000 corporation headed by Mr. J. A. Thomas and Mr. Chow Tze-chi, former premier, will build two theaters as soon as possible in Shanghai, one in the Chinese City and one on Broadway in the mill district, according to an announcement made yesterday at the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club by General Manager F. V. Chamberlain of the organization.

The Company has already begun work on a studio to produce Chinese pictures, which will be made at 116 Sinc Road. According to Mr. Chamberlain, the company has $280,000 worth of films on the way to China for exhibition, all of which have been passed by a board of censors in New York, headed by the Chinese Consul General there.

An interesting feature of the meeting was the showing of "daylight" pictures, on a patented galathea cloth screen. This idea will be used in the 2,000 theaters which the Peacock Film Company will build in China.

Rice Trade Fiert By Rate Cutting

prices in the Far Eastern markets go up a little more to lay down American rice here and in Japan at rates that would prove attractive. The exportable surplus of Indo-China crop this year is only 200,000 tons, while last year approximately one-and-a-quarter million tons were exported, and in 1931 about a million and a-half tons.

In view of the reduction in the exportable surplus from Indo-China and the growing demand from Shanghai, South China and Japan it would appear the prospects of importing American rice are bright. In recent years Japan has imported the cereal in increasing quantity from the United States. In 1911 Japan drew upon America for the supply of 57 million pounds, owing to the shortage of the Japanese crop while in the year previous only 212,000 lbs. of Californian rice went to Japan.

Possibilities of sale of American rice in the Orient must be limited to years when the crops which the Eastern countries usually rely upon fail.

The rice grown in the United States divide themselves into three groups, the long-grain rice represented on a large commercial scale by the Honduras variety, the medium grade or Blue Rose variety, which is estimated to produce about 60 percent of the crop, and the short-grain rice of which the varieties grown in the part are Japanese in origin. It is believed that the Swatow district might very shortly be obliged to draw upon the United States for supplies of rice to satisfy its annual requirements. Last year Swatow bought from the Indo-China market 128,000 tons of rice and in the previous year some 95,500 tons. Owing to the reduction of exportable surplus from Indo-China it is likely that Swatow would be obliged to indent from America.

WU PLANS FOR AGRICULTURAL ARMY AT LOYANG

Machinery Catalogues Fore-shadow New Slogan Of Northern Warlord

(China Press Correspondence)

Loyang, March 14.—During the last two weeks catalogues of agricultural machinery and implements have been pouring into the Inspectorate-General of Hupeh and Hunan, Loyang. Several of the biggest companies on the agricultural line, namely, the International Harvester Co., the Goulds Manufacturing Co., the Moine Plow Co., the I. J. Case Threshing Co., are sending in printed matters about their manufactured goods as well as export price lists.

It has been in this connection found out that the Loyang warlord is planning the establishment of an agricultural school for the soldiers who are going to be converted into labor corps after the pacification is effected, and that, with this in view, a whole set of agricultural machinery and implements together with tractors, pumps and other necessities will be purchased for experiment. A graduate of the National Agricultural College has been engaged to superintend the affairs, while the commercial attaché of the U. S. Legation in Peking has been invited to render help in selecting and transporting the machinery which is quite a new thing in China.

A NEW SLOGAN
According to the young officer in charge of the enterprise, General Wu is contemplating to lead up a movement among the military authorities with "Disbandment and Employment" as their slogan. When the selected troops of the Third Division are graduated from the school that comprises a two years' course of practical training, officers and soldiers sent by other provinces will also be admitted. The intended area for the proposed agricultural exploitation work will be somewhere in the northwest, but the exact geographical location has not yet been designated.

The General is absolutely in sympathy with Dr. Sun Yat-sen's "Demobilization and Labor" policy, declaring that he is going to carry it out in conformance with the Chinese proverb: "Ching ze Kuei Sze" or "Start It By Yourself." He won't talk so much but wants to do something in the interest of his country. "No matter how problematical the Unification of the Republic may be," General Wu is reported to have said, "God and Human effort will solve it. Let men of will and power abandon useless political strife and take up constructive works."

Peking Notes

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, March 22.—Mr. Huang Fu, the Foreign Minister, resigned yesterday and left for Tientsin this morning.

The resignation is reported to be due to the attacks against the Government in connection with their alleged mishandling of the 1915 Treaty question. It is also stated in Chinese political circles that Mr. Huang Fu did not desire to refuse to accept the Japanese reply to the Chinese Note abrogating the Twenty-One Demands, which the Cabinet, it is reported, intend doing.

JOHN HAIG'S
GLENLEVEN WHISKY
THE OLDEST DISTILLERS IN THE WORLD

Carlton Theater

In his latest comedy, "The Paleface" which opens at Carlton Theater tonight for three nights, Buster Keaton makes his debut as a naturalist, hunting for butterflies and gets as much fun out of it as anyone could until he is seized by a band of Indians and tied to a stake. The humor is contagious and runs along in even measure throughout the film. The droll comedian has evolved several new gags and introduces them in his inimitable style.

The other big comedy to be shown on the same bill is, "Love, Honor and Behave," one of Mack Sennett's latest comedies featuring the famous Irish comedian Charles Murray. Murray has the part of a Judge in the Supreme Court. The court is interrupted by a pair of "newlyweds" breaking through the doors and snoring for a divorce, the bride claims unfaithfulness, all based on circumstantial evidence.

The Judge then cites his personal matrimonial experience on a similar case, and the film then unravels a series of circumstantial episodes that is said to be the most hilarious series of situations ever crowded into a single picture.

Osborn To Head Federal Radio Administration

Mr. E. G. Osborn, formerly with the Radio Corporation of China, has been appointed General Manager of the Federal Radio Administration and is no longer connected with the Radio Corporation of China, according to announcement made by him yesterday.

Mr. Osborn said last night that the newly formed organization would be of inestimable value in popularizing radio not only in Shanghai but all over China as it was extremely well backed financially and had comprehensive plans for the future. Announcement of the board of directors and an official statement of the organization's plans would be made in the course of the new few days, he said.

HOW RADIO TELEPHONING IS ACCOMPLISHED

By Alfred N. Goldsmith, Director of Research Department, Radio Corporation of America

It might be expected that a reasonably clear understanding of the operation of a radio telephone transmitting and receiving system would be difficult in view of the complexity and unusual nature of the methods employed. Such is fortunately not the case; and it is believed that, by the use of a few simple analogies based on everyday experience, a satisfactory comprehension of this new and marvelous application of electricity will be readily attained.

Whenever a disturbance of any sort is produced in the air, the air in the neighborhood of the disturbing body is compressed and a wave of compression spreads out in all directions. The air itself, in bulk, does not move outward in every direction; but only a spherical region of compression advances. If one imagines a constantly expanding spherical soap bubble, the surface of which represents a region where the air is compressed, one has a fair idea of the nature of the sound wave produced, for example, when the hands are clapped together. It is an effect not unlike the spread of the circular ripples in a pond except that the sound wave, travelling in all directions, is spherical instead of circular.

In the case of the water ripple, the water does not travel in bulk, but the movement occurs only at the circular region where the water is piled up into the ripple. This is called a travelling wave, and the distance it travels forward each second is its velocity. In the case of the sound waves, the velocity is about one-fifth of a mile a second which, while large, is still readily detectable. This fact is experienced when one watches the operation of a distant pile driver and notes the time which elapses between the arrival of the light waves which indicate the driving of the pile and the arrival of the sound waves which give the sound of the blow. The delay of the sound of thunder after the observation of the flash of lightning is another illustration to show how the velocity of sound may be observed.

When the body which produces a sound wave vibrates to and fro regularly, a series of expanding spheres of compression, one within the other, will be produced in the air, just as a cork bobbing on the water produces a family of expanding concentric ripples. The spheres of compression of the wave at any instant are called wave crests. Half way between the wave crests lie the wave troughs. In the case of the water waves these troughs are depressed as much below the surface of the water as the crests are raised above the surface. With sound waves, the troughs are regions where the air is not compressed, but, on the contrary, reduced in pressure, or rarefied.

COMPARED TO SPEECH

In speech the vocal cords of the speaker vibrate, and start the waves of compression and rarefaction which are shown as expanding spheres in the figure. When these strike the ear drum of the listener, they cause it to vibrate and as a result, they stimulate the terminals of the auditory nerves and the sensation of sound is produced in the brain of the listener.

To study the nature of the vibrations of any body which is producing a sound, attach to it a very delicate pen (or its equivalent), and draw a piece of paper rapidly under the pen at right angles to the direction in which the pen is vibrating. The pen will draw on the paper a wavy line which shows just how the vibrating body was moving—whether regularly or irregularly, and whether in a smooth to-and-fro motion such as produces the so-called pure continuous waves or with irregular peaks and depressions in the wavy line. The motion of sounding bodies is often complex. If the little pen could be attached to the vocal cords of a speaker, the wave from some of the vowel sounds would give very complicated curves. The study of these curves reveals the remarkable ease with which speech is produced and understood. Equally complex in form are the sound waves from the strings of a piano or the reeds or other vibrating parts of musical instruments.

When the wave forms of the sound carry extra peaks and depressions riding on the main wave, they are said to have harmonics or overtones. It is just these harmonics of the main wave which give the sound its quality and enable the ready distinction of the sound of the flute from the sound of the violin when both are played to the same pitch. These extra peaks and depressions on the wave form naturally correspond to minor condensations and rarefactions in the major sound wave travelling through the air. They are clearly of importance and must be retained if the quality of the sound is not to be destroyed.

FREQUENCY

One of the most important characteristics of a sound is its frequency.

This expresses the number of times per second that the vibrating body which produces the sound swings to-and-fro. The ear cannot hear sounds of all frequencies—musical notes. Very low notes, for example, those of less than twenty cycles, or twenty to-and-fro swings per second, are inaudible, as are also very high notes, such as those above about ten thousand cycles in a second. Some of the notes of the cricket fall above the last-mentioned value, and not every one can hear them. Frequencies, therefore, below about 10,000 cycles per second are arbitrarily called audio frequencies, that is, audible frequencies. Frequencies above 10,000 cycles are termed radio frequencies for reasons which will appear later when the normal frequencies of radio oscillation are considered. While this division of sounds into audio and radio frequencies is arbitrary, it has proved very convenient.

A knowledge of the wavelength of travelling sound waves, or distance from crest to crest of the wave, is also important. The wavelength diminishes as the frequency of the vibrating source of sound increases, as can be readily determined by observing the length of the ripple produced in a rope fastened at one end to a wall when the hand holding the free end is moved to-and-fro. The faster the hand is moved, the shorter the distance from crest to crest of the resulting ripple or the wavelength. As a matter of fact the wavelength of the 20-cycle sound is about 50 feet, and of the 10,000 cycle sound only a little more than 1 inch.

crashed it with telling effect against her spouse's skull. The Court called for confirmation from Mme. Woo—and this was where Tsang began to lean toward the precept mentioned at the beginning of this column.

"He had no business interfering in the quarrel," stated Mme. Woo. "And he hit my husband with a club." Tsang's conversation was completed a few minutes later, as he paid over $2 to the controller of the Mixed Court exchequer.

ONE THIEF CHUCKLES C.P.C. 839 is either a very skeptical or a very discerning person. When he saw Liao Ah-man walking down Avenue Foeh with a stool under his arm, the officer inquired bluntly if the furniture belonged to its wearer.

"No," was the frank response of Liao. "It belongs to Eu-Sung-gee, of 133 Tamsui Road."

"But I shouldn't be charged with stealing it from Eu," he added in court yesterday. "It was stolen by another man. I saw him steal it and I took it away from him."

It having been shown by the police records that Liao has been convicted twice previously for larceny, the Court deemed it best to order him exiled from Shanghai after he serves his three weeks.

LARGE AMOUNTS OF PERSIAN DRUG COMING TO CHIAN

223 Chests Sent To Hongkong Are Unaccounted For

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Peking, March 19.—In reply to a letter of the International Anti-Opium Association asking for information concerning the production and export of opium, Dr. A. C. Millspaugh, Administrator General of the Finances of Persia, states:

"The present tax on opium has caused a noticeable decrease in production, but it cannot be considered successful as the present estimated local consumption is approximately 80,000 pounds per year."

The present export duty on opium is $1.80 per 5.49 pounds. Exports for 1921:

China	12,642 lbs.
Egypt	1,570 "
England	272,644 "
India	11,027 "
United States	1 "
Japan	23,523 "
Russia	32,826 "
Switzerland	1 "
Mesopotamia	8,651 "

Total 362,885 lbs.

Persia was one of the original signatories of the Hague Convention, but at the date of Dr. Millspaugh's letter the Medjilis had not ratified the Convention. It is a cause of thankfulness to know that this ratification has since taken place. The League of Nations had brought great pressure to bear on both Persia and Turkey, and a recent decision of the League that countries signatory to the Convention should not import or export to non-signatory countries may have hastened their decision, for Turkey signed the Convention at Lausanne, and Persia has ratified it.

The export to China in 1921 of 12,642 lbs. of opium requires a little explanation. China does not permit the importation of foreign opium except for medical purposes and this amounts to only a few pounds per annum. If the word China connotes Formosa, Twingtao, Dairen, Macao and Hongkong, explanation is still wanting, for in 1921 Hongkong alone imported for re-exportation 223 chests of Persian opium which is more than double the above amount stated in pounds. Where did it go?

As Persian opium is imported almost exclusively for morphia manufacture, this one export would more than yield the amount of morphia necessary for the world's medical needs for a year.

SCOUTS-CUBS SHOW PROVES BIG SUCCESS

Lads Give Delightful Program At The Olympic HOUSE FILLED
Capacity Crowd Enjoys
Fine Entertainment

If the A.D.C. within the next few years should find itself running shy of male talent, let it call for the rolls of the Baden-Powell Boy Scout Troops and the Wolf Cub Packs of the current year and scan them to its profit.

These youngsters have a bent for giving pleasurable entertainment, as they demonstrated yesterday at a capacity audience at the Olympic Theater, where a truly excellent Scout-Cub "concert" was given.

The program was a combination of artfully selected and enacted scenes of Scout and Cub life, interspersed with ingeniously arranged extemporaneous sketches, songs and bits contributed by some of Shanghai's foremost amateur artists of the senior generation. All of the turns were good, some were very good and taking it as a whole it was a corking entertainment from the viewpoint of young and old and the producers and participants are to be sincerely congratulated.

PARADE IN FIRST

The program opened with a Wolf Cub parade, the raising of the flag, the Cub salute, a farewell ceremony for six Cubs who are sailing shortly for England, a hitting, spiraling rendition of "Updee," Cub games and the "grand howl." These features were accompanied in highly creditable style by the Public School Pack and were arranged and conducted by D. C. M. Whitaker.

Followed a "Fishing" song by Mr. G. H. Parke, with Cub chorus, a clever "symphony" executed by Mr. Parke with a pair of spoons, and then came an amusing skit in shadowgraph by the French Municipal School Troop, P. L. L. Moller and Scout F. Sullivan, as the much-motored-over "moke," and Mr. N. Balakrishnan, as the policeman, took the chief comedy honors, but there were some good bits likewise by Scouts who cast their silhouettes on the screen as the barrow coolie, risha puller and other street characters. The skit was arranged by A. S. M. Atkinson.

A delightful little adaptation arranged and cleverly costumed by Assistant Cubmistress Philip, of the Public School, revived our old friends the Mad Hatter, March Hare, Dormouse and White Rabbit at their historic tea party. Cubs Wheeler, Crank, Luis, Green, Wade and Barham won applause in this number.

STREET SCENE IS HIT

A decided hit was scored by the Jewish School Troop in their scenes of Shanghai streets. Produced by P. C. B. Naer, it struck a high note of realism, in the comic key. The gang of rhythmically chanting coolies at work tamping the road, the Chinese sock hawker, the episode of the constable and the risha coolie, the quarreling of the blind fiddler, were to the life. A finished and chuckleful cameo of a Shanghai day.

More elaborate setting and effect were seen in the second half of the concert. The picture of an evening in camp, arranged by Mr. Graham Barrow for the Cathedral School Troop, was colorful as well as convincing and Patrol Leader Hickmott's solo number was excellently rendered and received, as were also the long quotation from Henry V in connection with the bedtime story and Mr. Raggett's solo with the Scout chorus.

The "eventide" number by the Public School Pack of Cubs was another charming "campfire" item, with particular praise accorded for the Pack's singing of the lullaby "Soft and Low" and Mrs. Chris Wingrove's song, "Mighty Lak a Rose."

Mr. Reginald Kay gave an amusing and baffling demonstration in sleight of hands and the S.P.S. Troop, gathered round the "Council Fire," danced and sang and explained the principles of woodcraft. The show ended with a rousing finale produced by Mr. Graham Barrow and participated in by all the troops.

The performance, as said, was A-1, productive of pleasing anti-elation with regard to the next "Jamboree."

Mr. Chang has been dean of the college for a considerable time and was very popular among the students. U.S. Not Ready To Recognise Soviet

(Reuter's Service)
Washington, March 21.—Replying to a delegation of the Women's Committee for the Recognition of Russia, it is understood that Mr. Hughes, the Secretary of State, declared that reports reaching the State Department failed to inspire confidence in the Soviet or furnish a basis for discussions with Moscow.

Mr. Hughes afterwards stated that the attitude of the State Department was one of non-interference in Russia's internal concerns out of determination not to enter into discussions for recognition until the Soviet Government was established on a sound basis for international intercourse.

Referring to the Russian debt to America, Mr. Hughes said that indulgence and proper arrangements were one thing and repudiation quite another.

Suit Over Alleged Damaged Hair Ends In American Court With Defence Testimony

There might be irritation but it would not have permanent effect. Alkali was generally used to soften the skin. Any effect on the hair? No, it would not penetrate the skin. Would 5 or 6 percent penetrate the skin? I am assuming you use a solution of carbonate. It might soften the skin. Would it blister? I don't believe so. If it was on the skin a long time it would soften it. If it was put on for a few minutes and then washed off? No, it would not. Would it in any way affect the color of the hair? It would take away the grease and the hair would lose the lustre. It would not be brilliant. As far as the pigment of the hair is concerned potassium carbonate would have no effect. Did you receive a bottle of this codogon shampoo from Mrs. Ren in June or July? Yes. HE TASTED IT Tell the circumstances? I came to town and was shown the bottle. I was told the lady had been there and had complained that her scalp had been burned. I tested the preparation, as usual, by tasting it. There was an alkali taste, and I said the shampoo was not what it ought to be. The new one is neutral, therefore they had to find out what had happened to this alkali shampoo which was still on the market and was not to be sold. There was about a third of the quantity out of the bottle containing 3 ozs. What effect had it on you? No particular effect. I did not swallow it. I spit it out again. There were traces of alkali in it? Yes, but it was not strong. What do you mean by strong? I just noticed that it was not neutral. The bottle was taken home by me and I was told to look up the stocks and see that there were no more showing alkali. What is the usual test when goods are returned? As I have stated, if there are no complaints there are no tests. It depends on the nature of the article. TESTING METHODS Is this the test usually used by the American Drug Co.? I am not the only one to make tests. As a matter of custom, if anything comes back and there is anything wrong it is referred to me to make a test. I taste it all once. Was the old stock recalled from the various stores? At that time I did not know anything about the old stocks. We heard that this bottle had been bought at Wing On's and we did not want anything on the market which was not perfect. Naturally all was recalled. It was not pleasant to have complaints. The Judge: Did you have any other complaints? Not personally. The only complaint that was made to me was by Mr. Walter, of our store, who said that his wife had used it. That was when he heard of this case, and he said, "My wife has had a similar experience and it caused her an irritation which lasted for a week." It was not in the form of a complaint. Mr. Moss: What do you mean by a similar complaint? I do not say complaint. He drew my attention to it that his wife had had an irritation of the scalp. What else did it do? Nothing. Do you know that this really happened to Mrs. Walter? No. You do not know of your own knowledge? No. DISCUSSES FORMULA What explanation can you give of this slight content of alkali in this shampoo? In November, 1919, we made a shampoo to which intentionally we placed a certain percentage of carbonate. It gave a better lather. Persons had asked for a better lather and the formula was changed. What does excessive alkali mean? A preparation which is not neutral. Anything more than a trace is excessive. Do many shampoos contain alkali? Most of them. Do you know of other preparations which cause a burning of the skin? Glycerine on the hands, then there is alum, concentrated alcohol, chloroform, ether. One witness said this bottle was from the old stock? He would not know, he was only in the retail business. Do you know that this was the old shampoo? The analysis shows quite clearly that it was. Witness stated that when goods were returned and it was found that there was any sediment in the preparation they were re-filtered. Do many shampoos cause irritation? Yes, a number of preparations not made by us. Have you heard of any complaints about other shampoos other than those manufactured by the American Drug Co.? Yes, and instructions have now been given that none of these preparations be recommended. We know what are the contents of our preparations. Mr. Moss asked witness if he was prepared to make a solution in Court containing 6 percent of alkali and use it on his own head. Witness said he would do so. Mr. Schuhl objected, as this was not based on the facts before the Court, as to what was in the bottle purchased by Mrs. Ren. The Judge held that the experiment was permissible but not conclusive, but it was deferred for the presence of another chemist. CROSS-EXAMINATION Mr. Schuhl, in cross-examination, asked the witness if he could say on oath how much alkali was in the bottle that Mrs. Ren purchased. Witness replied that the test had been made by another. Any other analysis made? By Mr. Miller. Mr. Schuhl: In the last six months did you ever hear of a doctor's prescription which was changed to prussic acid and which was sent to the patient? No. The complaints are always made to the store manager, Mr. Miller at present, and he reports to me. How much alkali do you think would be necessary to cause scabs and blisters? It is rather hard to say. The alkali makes the skin soft, but I do not think that it would cause blisters and scabs. Dr. Louis Feiger, graduate of the University of California, Medical Department who has practised for nine years was then called. Mr. Moss: Have you any experience with the diseases of scalp and hair falling out of the skin? Yes. What are the reasons for hair turning grey? There are various causes brought about by different diseases. What is the cause of the hair falling out? That may be an acquired cause or a congenital cause. At this stage Mr. Schloten proceeded to make a solution of shampoo as an experiment, to show that 6 percent of potassium bicarbonate was not harmful. Dr. Thomas Dunn was called by the defence to testify that Mrs. Ren had called at his office to consult him concerning her hair after she used the shampoo. Dr. Dunn was called under a contention of the defence that Mrs. Ren had previously testified that she had consulted no other physician except Dr. Pettit. AFTERNOON SESSION At the afternoon session the first witness was Mr. Edward Miller, pharmacist with the drug company, who gave expert testimony on the amount of alkalies contained in the shampoo. Mr. Miller said that it took a five percent solution of acid to neutralise the shampoo which had shown traces of alkalies and that by working the problem out with chemical formulas he has discovered that there was one and twenty-five hundredths percent of potassium carbonate in the returned shampoo. Dr. Reiss was the last defence witness. In answer to questions by Mr. Moss he said that a solution containing alkalies were put on the tongue and on the scalp it would burn both to a certain extent although a ten percent solution could be taken even internally without ill effects. Blisters would not cause the hair to fall out. Dr. Reiss said, and if any solution caused burns on the fingers it would cause burns to a greater extent on the tips of the ears if any of it had touched the ears. A slight dermatitis would stimulate the growth of the hair, Dr. Reiss said, but would not cause it to fall out. HAIR LECTURE Mr. Moss then presented a chart of the scheme of the skin in evidence and Dr. Reiss pointed out to the Court the various parts or units of the scalp in relation to the hair. The average scalp, he said, was from two to four millimeters deep. There were two layers of skin, he continued, and blisters on the upper (or outer) layer would have no effect on the under (or inner) layer which contain the hair roots. Mr. Moss: What would cause small blisters? Dr. Reiss: Various skin diseases, nervousness, acids and alkalies. Would a solution of five percent potassium carbonate cause blisters? No. What effect would a 10 percent solution have? It would cause dermatitis but it would not cause the hair to fall out or to turn grey.

And if it were washed out immediately? It wouldn't cause any harm. Under cross-examination Dr. Reiss said that a 30 percent solution would cause dermatitis that would continue for perhaps ten or fifteen days. Potassium hydroxide, he said, was much stronger than potassium carbonate and a smaller amount would cause dermatitis although there would be no ill effects from a 20 percent solution. Mr. Schuhl asked the witness whether he would be willing to have a solution of thirty percent potassium hydroxide poured in his hair and left for a time. Dr. Reiss said he would allow it to be poured on if it were washed right out, but he would not let it stay on a minute or so. Mrs. A. Landau, operator of a beauty parlor in the Astor House, said that Mrs. Ren had come to her in October, 1922, and she had changed the color to a dark chestnut with henna. Mr. Schuhl, in cross-examination, started to ask questions concerning the conversation between Mrs. Landau and Mrs. Ren at the time. Mr. Moss objected, seeking to keep the conversation out of the testimony. "You don't mean to say that these two ladies got together and didn't say a word?" Judge Lobingier asked. "It couldn't have been a pantomime—there must have been some conversation." In rebuttal Mrs. Woo was again called and testified that she had accompanied Mrs. Ren to the beauty parlor and that Mrs. Landau had told Mrs. Ren her hair but had told her her hair was so henna, not as a dye, she said, treatment or she would lose it, had she would be absolutely bald but because Mrs. Landau had told Mrs. Ren, also called in re-lit two years if she didn't have her it would favorise her hair.

Repah Rubber And Tapioca Estates, Ltd.

The Chairman of the Repah Rubber Company at the annual meeting of the shareholders yesterday made a flattering reference to the better results achieved by the company, which was saved from possible bankruptcy by reason of the restriction scheme. There is a profit of over Tia. 11,000 in the working account, quite a gratifying result under the adverse circumstances that the concern faced under previous years. Although there is really a net deficit of Tia. 36,122, the Chairman anticipated that it would be wiped out next year and the Company placed on a dividend-paying basis.

The Chairman (Mr. B. A. Clarke) said: "Since I last had the privilege of addressing you, the prospects of this Company have improved materially under the beneficial effects of restriction. The higher prices we now get for our product are reflected in monthly remittances of surpluses from the Straits, and I am pleased to say the Company's indebtedness is gradually being reduced. I may tell you the estimated profit on January working alone is nearly $7,000 Straits currency, and if this cheering state of things continues the Company should be able to have liquidated its debt about the middle of 1924, and after that come on a dividend-paying basis. Our capital is only small viz. Tia. 275,000, our acreage is large, in proportion, via 1,300 acres, or a capitalisation of only Tia. 210 per acre. "That the estate is economically run is evidenced in the fact that last year the crop of 217,149 lbs. was produced at an all-in cost of 27 cents Straits currency. This figure includes Shanghai expenses, but excludes interest on overdraft and mortgage. Economy, however, has not interfered with efficiency, the property today is in good condition and, from all reports, an excellent estate. When funds permit, a new factory, in addition to the smoke house and some new cooling things must be built, but the capital expenditure required for these will be only a modest figure.

Despite the low selling price for rubber that obtained throughout most of last year, the working account shows a profit of Tia. 11,564.98, a most gratifying result under the adverse circumstances. After providing for interest, and auditors fees, leave and passage reserve, the profit on the year is Tia. 3,278.45, which is applied to reducing the 1921 debit balance, and which now leaves a deficit of Tia. 26,122.59 in profit and loss account.

"Before putting the usual resolutions to this meeting, I wish to record the Board's appreciation of the strenuous work of our estate manager, Mr. Cheuveaux. During the days of stress, although he could not afford to do so, he voluntarily reduced his salary and when the Company is out of debt and on a dividend-paying basis we shall not overlook the good service he has rendered us. I also desire to thank our Straits agents Messrs. Harrison Daker and Co., Ltd., as also our late Secretaries and General Managers, Messrs. Hopkins Dunn and Co., Ltd., for their services.

"This Company, gentlemen, ups narrowly escaped shipwreck but its position is now clear and I am of opinion at present prices of rubber we are safely away from the rocks and sailing towards prosperity. "In conclusion I have to record the thanks of the Company for the financial assistance rendered to the Company by Mr. E. S. Kadocia when its affairs were in a most critical position and also to Mr. Grayridge for his recent efforts on the Company's behalf. The report and accounts were unanimously approved, and Mr. Brodie A. Clark re-elected a Director of the Company. The appointment of Mr. A. J. Welch as Director was also approved. Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews were re-elected auditors for the ensuing year.

Korean Government Hears Of Revolutionary Plot To Blow Up Buildings

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Seoul, March 15.—A Government General communiqué issued today says that the Government has been informed that a group of Korean revolutionaries whose headquarters are alleged to be in Peking are planning to blow up all Government buildings in Chosen, to create excitement among the Koreans. As the result of careful watching and precaution the police patrolling the border between Antung-hsien and Shin-Gishu discovered several Koreans in the border district last night and arrested them. They were carrying 10 bombs and a great quantity of inflammatory leaflets, which the police seized. Also the Seoul police have arrested several Koreans suspected of being revolutionaries in Seoul this morning, seizing at the same time a number of bombs, pistols and bullets.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Seoul, March 15.—Nine out of the 20 Koreans examined in connection with the bomb outrage were committed to public trial by the local Seoul Court on March 13, charged with high treason. Their confessions are said to be substantiated by ample evidence. According to the procurators' indictment these 9 Koreans made bombs in collusion with the so-called "Korean Provisional Government" at Shanghai for terrorizing the Koreans and to export money to carry on the independence agitation. They were arrested in connection with the arrest of Kim Gogoku, their ringleader who shot dead the Japanese policeman Tamura on January 17 near Seoul station when Baron Saito departed for Tokyo to attend the Diet. Kim then escaped, but was tracked by the police, and shot to death by them when he tried to kill them in resisting arrest.

Johnson, Whiz Hurler, Ready To Wind Up

at Washington, and I'm going to play my last ball game with them," he continued. "Come to think, I've been with Washington a long time. The club has been sold several times and the players have changed a dozen times over. Still, there's Ty Cobb and Eddie Collins and a few more who have been in the big leagues longer than I have and still going strong. After living in Washington so long, I've come to look at life like the politicians, I'll hang on as long as they'll have me."

Johnson sticks to mother nature to keep him in trim. The days he isn't shooting ducks at Roberts's famous duck pond, near Reno, he's shooting pheasants at Yerington, where at Washoe Lake, or chasing deer over nearby mountain ranges.

France For Pact, With Reservations

(Reuter's Service)
Paris, March 21.—The report, presented to the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Chamber, on the Washington Naval Agreement favors ratification but only for the normal duration expiring in 1936 and not for an indefinite period. Renewal thereafter, the reports add, should be by tacit agreement, while the ratio of strength established ought not to be considered immutable.

(Reuter's Service)
London, March 21.—In the course of a speech in London today, Mr. Amery, the First Lord of the Admiralty, said that Britain had scrapped warships totalling 1,600,000 tons since the Washington Conference, or, with ships in the course of construction and auxiliary vessels, she had scrapped some 2,000,000 tons, including 35 battleships and battlecruisers, 81 cruisers, 283 destroyers, 95 torpedo-boats, 161 submarines.

Labor Troubles Loom In Britain

(Reuter's Service)
London, March 21.—The result of the building trades unions' ballot is a 50 percent majority against acceptance of the employers' terms for the reduction of wages, coinciding with the commencement of the Government housing scheme. The Government is focusing attention on the growing portents of an end to the industrial peace which has lasted since 1921.

A strike of farm laborers in Norfolk and Suffolk is spreading as a result of the importation of labor from other countries.

The trouble in the coal mines is accentuated by the decision of the South Wales miners' Executive to tender three months' notice of the termination of the National Agreement in order to reopen negotiations with regard to working conditions and wages.

The electrical power engineers are threatening to call a general stoppage owing to alleged victimization.

There is also discontent among the seamen consequent on the shipowners' demand for the reduction of wages.

The British Pottery Manufacturers' Federation intends to notify a lock-out on March 24, as the operatives have rejected the employers' modified demand for a 10 percent reduction in wages. Sixty thousand employees are affected. Negotiations are expected to continue.

RAIDS IN DUBLIN

(Reuter's Service)
London, March 21.—Free State detectives today raided ten houses in Dublin and made numerous arrests, including the Republican Director of Publicity and a despatch-bearer to De Valera.

Asia Banking Corporation

March 22, 1923

Spot bar silver was down 1-16d. and forward unchanged in London yesterday. The New York price declined to 61 1/2 cents and the London-New York cross rate improved to 469 1/2.

The only changes in our official quotations here today were a rise in the Yen rate to 65 1/2 and a drop in the Franc rate to 1105. Our market in the early part of the morning was firm, eased off during the day but firmed up again at the close.

In the early part of the morning business in Sterling was done at 3s. 2 1/4 d. for March, 3s. 2 1/4 d. April and 3s. 2 1/4 d. June. Gold Dollars were done at 76 March, 75 1/2 April and 75 1/2 for forward delivery.

However, there were strong buyers at these rates and the market eased off until at one time as low as 3s. 2 1/4 d. March, 3s. 2 1/4 d. April and 3s. 2 1/4 d. May was done.

Gold Dollars at the same time were done at 75 1/2 March, 75 1/2 April and 75 for forward delivery.

Later in the afternoon the market steadied up and closed with sellers of Sterling at 3s. 2 1/4 d. March, 3s. 2 1/4 d. April and 3s. 2 1/4 d. May-June.

There were sellers of Gold Dollars at the close at 75 1/2 March, 75 1/2 April and 75 for May-June. There were sellers of Yen at 64 for March and buyers at 63 1/2 for April at 64 1/2 and buyers at 64.

Banks were quoting 3s. 2 1/4 d. for Sterling and 77 1/2 for Gold Dollar bills for near delivery and 3s. 3 1/4 d. and 77 1/2 for forward delivery.

There were strong buyers of Franc T.T. at 1110 for practically any delivery and of bills at 1130. However, there were no sellers of either T.T. or bills.

China both bought and sold small amount of silver in London yesterday and the market there is reported as closing steady. New York also report their market as steady.

Exchange Market

In their weekly report on the exchange market, Messrs. Maitland, Pearson and Brand write as follows:

Messrs. Maitland, Pearson and Brand write as follows in their exchange circular for week ending yesterday:

Exchange.—The London price of silver after going to 32 1-16d. recovered today 7-16d. to 32 1-4d. which is 1/4d. higher than last week. Forward silver is quoted 32 5-16d. Our official quotation for T/T on London moved down 1/4d. with silver and today recovered to 3/2d. Local Gold dealers yesterday made the market strong with resales of Gold T/T and continued today and 1d. above official quotations ruled generally, at the close the market showed signs of reaction, possibly on receipt of the news that there will be no duty imposed on silver imported into India. This question came up for reconsideration yesterday in India.

Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:—
Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 24,080,000 an increase of Tls. 29,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $34,010,000 an increase of $700,000.

Estimated value Tls. 48,567,000 as against Tls. 56,465,000 held at this time last year.

"Save your eyes."

Our way of ocular examination is entirely different from others. In the former times it relies on subjective observation which can not disclose real status of eye refraction in high degree of accuracy. In the practice of Modern Ophthalmic Optics-Optometry the observer more relies on objective methods by the aid of precision instruments. Your call at our office will have such services as can be rendered by an up-to-date optometrist.

American Training Camp in China

TENTATIVE plans for a Citizens' Military Training Camp for Americans living in the Orient are being formulated at the headquarters of the American Troops at Tientsin. The project at present is merely in a formative stage, as up to date neither an appropriation of funds for nor the authority to hold such a camp have been secured. It is desired, however, to know the attitude towards such a project of the Americans residing in China.

The military policy of the United States contemplates that the national defense be effected by a small professional force augmented in time of emergency by trained reserves—these reserve forces to receive their instruction through agencies such as Citizens' Military Training Camps. Appreciating how highly Americans living here in China prize their American citizenship, and believing that they stand ready and willing to defend their country to the best of their ability in time of need; and believing that many advantages would accrue to them while attending such a camp; this is an attempt to provide for them an opportunity to participate actively in this phase of the national military policy.

These camps have been singularly successful in the United States. The work they do is twofold: In addition to training the individual so that he will be a valuable military asset in an emergency, they benefit his health by athletic training under expert supervision and by giving him a period of outdoor life; his mental outlook is improved by relaxation from business cares and by employment along new lines of activity.

The details incident to this encampment will be as follows: Period of training and instruction—May 15 to June 15, 1923.

Place—Lichuang, China. The 15th Infantry will be in camp at the target range at this place.

All equipment, including uniforms, arms, accoutrements, tents, bedding and subsistence, will be furnished by the United States.

Medical attendance and supervision, including hospitalization when necessary, will be furnished at the expense of the United States during the time of their actual attendance at the camp.

Laundry—arrangements will be made to establish laundry service at the smallest practicable cost to the individual.

The scheme of instruction includes calisthenics, Infantry Drill, Infantry Tactics for small units and Target Practice with the U.S. Rifle, Cal. 30 M 1903 (Springfield), Browning Automatic Rifle Cal. 30 M 1918 and the Automatic Pistol Cal. 45 M 1911.

Quarters and subsistence—The men will be quartered in pyramidal tents. The messes will be conducted under the supervision of regular army officers and mess sergeants and the menus will provide an assortment of foods properly cooked and properly served.

Transportation—In the United States transportation has heretofore been issued in kind to and from the camps. In case transportation was not so furnished a travel allowance of five cents ($.05) per mile for the distance by the shortest, usually traveled route from the places from which the students are authorized to proceed to the camp were paid for the journey to and from the camp. The payment of travel allowances for the return journey was paid in advance of the actual performance of same.

Pay and allowances—heretofore pay has not been authorized for civilians attending these camps in the United States.

The Commanding Officer, American Troops, Tientsin, China, desires all Americans who may wish to attend such an encampment to inform him of such desire, stating what season of the year they could most conveniently attend.

Bowser Interjects

BY T. W. BURGESS

Even though you do not understand, Obey when given a command.
—Bowser the Hound.

Bowser the Hound was uneasy. Somehow he didn't feel like sleeping. He had a feeling that something was wrong. Just what it was he didn't know. It was just a feeling that was all. Perhaps it was because his master had ordered him to keep away from the young Fox who was a prisoner in that box just a little way off.

Finally Bowser decided he would have a look around. By this time sweet Mistress Moon had begun to shed her soft light over everything. As Bowser came out of his house he looked over to the box where the young Fox was a prisoner. Out, just in front of that box was a dark mass, which at first Bowser thought was a black shadow. He took a few steps toward it and it moved and divided. One part disappeared through the doorway of that box and the other bounded away.

Bowser knew at once that one of these seeming shadows was the young Fox whom he had been ordered to leave alone. But what was the other one? Something was going on he must find out about. He walked over to where that dark mass had been and in an instant his nose told him that that shadow which had bounded away was no shadow at all, but Mrs. Reddy.

For a moment or two Bowser hesitated. His master had ordered him to leave that young Fox alone, but he had said nothing about any other Fox. Would it be right for him to chase Mrs. Reddy? Bowser decided that it would. He opened his mouth and sent his great voice rolling across the Green Meadows clear over to the Old Pasture. Then with his nose to the ground he started after Mrs. Reddy.

But this chase proved to be different from any chase Bowser could remember. Instead of leading him far away before trying to get rid of him, Mrs. Reddy led him only a short distance before she mixed her trail so that even his wonderful nose could not straighten it out. He spent some time trying, but at last made up his mind it couldn't be done and trotted back home.

As he drew near the box where the young Fox was a prisoner he again saw two shadowy forms in the moonlight. One crept back into the box, while the other swiftly bounded away. Again he found the fresh trail of Mrs. Reddy, and again she led him off only to mix the trail up as before. He spent even longer this time trying to work out that trail but at last gave up and trotted home. As before, two shadowy forms separated and one disappeared in that box and the other bounded away.

This time Bowser didn't follow. He knew that a trick had been played on him and he meant to find out what it was. So instead of following Mrs. Reddy, he sat down a short distance away to watch.

He had not been watching very long when Mrs. Reddy boldly appeared right in front of him. She was so near that the temptation was too great, and away went Bowser after her. Again the result was as before. In even less time than usual her trail ended. But now Bowser wasted no time trying to find it. He turned and hurried straight back to Farmer Brown's barnyard. Once more he saw the young Fox hurry into the box while Mrs. Reddy disappeared among the Black Shadows. If ever there was a puzzled dog it was Bowser the Hound. Something was going on that he couldn't understand at all.

The truth of the matter is, Mrs. Reddy was trying to gnaw through the collar the young Fox wore and thus set him free. Bowser was interfering.

THE QUEST

I have listened to world adventures. Spin tales of a rousing theme. And held my breath as they wove again. The threads of a vivid dream. I have marshaled my reason with keen array. While the spell of their dreams was rife. And worried to think if their tales were true—How much did I know of life!

They told of hills in the flaming dawn. Of nights when they galloped the plain. When the song in their hearts was a trumpet blast. That rang with the hope of gain. The lure of their rustling blades told.

Still gleams like a hungry knife. Though the eager edge of their strength is gone—And I wonder if that is life! They have boasted of dice with a reckless lust. When their winnings were hard to hold; Or the turn of the cards, when a single cut.

Meant more than the loss of gold; Of giving their all to a luckless pal. Who, fighting, fell in the strife. And it wasn't the giving they miss the most—

So I wonder if that is life! I have listened at length to their bunter bold. And swallowed their tongue's parade. When their eyes reptiled and their pulses beat high.

To the glance of a comely maid; And it wasn't the paint or the silken hose. Or the love that crowns a wife. But the quest of it all, that holds them yet—

So I know that the quest is life! Lowe W. Wren.

Penguin Persons And Peppermints

Essays by Walter Prichard Eaton, Boston and Chicago; W. A. Wilde Company—Gold $1.50.

The title of Mr. Walter Prichard Eaton's new book of essays, "Penguin Persons and Peppermints," arouses curiosity. What on earth is a Penguin Person—and what the relation between such a person and a peppermint? It will probably do no harm to dispel the mystery, crediting Mr. Eaton with the coinage of "penguinity," which, he says, "when Penguin Persons have taken their rightful place in the world's estimation, will then overthrow the dictionary despotism and enter unchallenged the leather strongholds of Webster and Murray." A Penguin Person is one whose amusingly cheery outlook on life makes his companionship a first aid to cheerfulness in a world where circumstances often unsettle our average dispositions. He supplies the same saving balance that John Ruskin, as he once wrote "Charles Eliot Norton, secured by a visit to the British Museum. Affairs had troubled Mr. Ruskin. "When I begin to think of it all," he wrote, "I get into states of disgust and fury... and have to go to the British Museum and look at Penguins till I get cool. I find Penguins at present the only comfort in life. One feels everything in the world so sympathetically ridiculous; one can't be angry when one looks at a Penguin."

So with a Penguin Person: without looking like a Penguin, he makes you feel as Ruskin felt when he looked at a stuffed specimen. Mr. Eaton describes one as "bright, alert, 'kindly' to be sure, but delightfully humorous, deliciously droll. Life with him appears to be one huge joke, and there is an unctious about him, a contagion in his point of view, that affects you whether you will or no, and when you are in his presence you cannot take life seriously, either, you can but laugh with him."

As for the peppermints, the pleasant word serves as title for the last essay. The book notices, writing it, wishes he had one, and the wish recalls episodes in which peppermints figured. If you like peppermints, the word thus affects you. So with the essayist. A little bag of peppermints bought and eaten in a big city. "I did not purchase them at the promptings of a sweet tooth, but of a hungry heart. They take me back into the forgotten Aprils of my life," says the reminiscence. Out of the little bag of peppermints comes again the village notion store, its proprietress, and the "great pink and white peppermints, two for a cent, that reposed in a glass jar." How many of us remember such a store and such peppermints! Out of it, too, comes the entertaining family tradition of the beautiful great grandmother: "to my infant imagination she appeared as a superhumanly radiant vision who walked about the streets in a hoop skirt with an admiring throng in her wake, constantly being forced to explain why she was beautiful"—and her invariable answer was "Peppermints." All her life long the beautiful great grandmother dotted on them. Out of the little bag, its peppermints diminishing, comes the village church where the small boy used to count the people whose faces the sunlight through the stained glass windows painted with incongruous spots of color. Across the aisle one Sunday morning he caught the whiff of peppermint, and saw an old lady whisk her dress down over her petticoat pocket. "For a few minutes I watched her with envy... But how she could enjoy the candy and not make her mouth go more than that, I wondered."

A companionable book, subject to the universal qualifications that between any essayist and his reader must be for companionship, a common ground of congeniality. There are some two dozen essays and a wide range of topics. "The Twilight Veil," for example, analyzes and presents the beauty of New York City. "The Bad Manners of Police People" explains the seeming paradox by contrast between assumed and stereotyped politeness; and the rood manners of unaffected elegance. "Spring in the Garden" may, indeed, seem to some home gardeners a shade over-illuminated; not all are so happily sensitive to the joy of red flames crackling and roaring through the rubbish pile, or so appreciative of the "beautiful brown smoke." Mr. Eaton admits he was not always so appreciative. Granted an evening and a Morris chair—one of the most accursed articles of furniture ever devised by human ingenuity gone astray," says our essayist, who evidently doesn't like them—and many a reader will no doubt be contentedly lured from title to title.

POSTAL INCREASES

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir—Will you kindly let me know whether Pootung has now been excluded from the district of Shanghai? I ask this because letters posted at Shanghai for Pootung are transmitted at the "Domestic" rate, i.e. 3 cents. For years Pootung has been regarded by the C.P.O. as "Local." Only, since a fortnight ago Pootung is no longer a part of Shanghai. Recipients of letters in Pootung (Shanlinatang, etc.) sent from Shanghai (with ordinary 1-cent postage) have been, since then, asked to pay a fine of 5 or 8 coppers for postage due. I do not think this is justifiable.

I am of the opinion that if the C.P.O. must increase the rate of postage, the public should be previously notified to this effect. In the above case, neither the public in Shanghai has been notified that this increase in postage was to take effect from such and such a date, nor the public on the Pootung side. I therefore doubt whether the C.P.O. is right in imposing such a "fine" as that mentioned above.

There are only two questions that your readers in general may wish to ask:

(1) Is it necessary that Pootung should be considered as an Outport (or Domestic Point outside Shanghai)?
(2) Is it right for the C.P.O. to impose a fine without giving sufficient notice of increased tariff?
Thanking you for having taken up so much valuable space in your paper,
I am, etc.,
A LETTER SENDER.

Shanghai Land Investment Company Annual Meeting

The annual general meeting of shareholders in the Shanghai Land Investment Co. was held yesterday at the offices of the agents Messrs. Gibb, Livingston & Co. Jinkee Road. Sir Edward C. Pearce was in the Chair, and was supported by Mr. H. E. Arnold, Mr. H. W. Lester and Mr. P. Peebles, Manager.

The Chairman said:—Gentlemen:—As you have all had an opportunity of studying the report and accounts I will, with your permission take them as read.

The past year has been one of satisfactory work with steadily improving results, and your Directors have pleasure in submitting an account which they are confident you will regard as satisfactory. In this account the gross rents for the first time in the history of the Company have passed the million mark and the actual working, apart from sales and chance profits, is the best the Company has so far experienced.

During the year we sold to the Municipal Council for a Children's Playground the remaining lot of our Ferry Road Estate, this, with two small strips of land which were also sold during the year completed the disposal of this Estate. The profit, together with Tls. 11,000 which had accumulated as interest on undeveloped land and which on the sale of the Estate was written back from Land suspense account, has been carried to the credit of profit and loss account.

This estate was purchased in 1905 with the view of cutting it up into building lots for re-sale, an object which has now been fully attained, the profits from various sales having been dealt with in past accounts.

No. 6 and 7 Yuen Ming Yuen Road were sold to the Yokohama Specie Bank, and after deducting first cost estimated on the same safe lines as detailed by me in my speech last year, the profit has been carried to profit and loss account.

SALES

In my speech last year I informed you that after closing 1921 accounts, a property on Yangtsepoo and Thorburn Road had been acquired at a price of approximately Tls. 450,000. Of this amount Tls. 250,000 was paid in cash, and is included in the increase of the Book Cost of Estates, and the balance of Tls. 170,000 has to be paid this year. The only other purchases have been small lots to square off properties principally on our Zang Pang Estate.

BUILDINGS

Building materials are in many cases higher than when I last addressed you. That we have been able to complete during the year, 31 small foreign houses on Dixwell Road Extension, is due entirely to the fact that we are developing land bought some years ago at a price far below its present market value. We have now in course of erection a further fifteen of these small houses, which will be ready for occupation during the summer. There is a very ready demand for these houses and they appear to be selling very satisfactorily a much felt want. Our tenants of all these houses are reaping a benefit from the Company's foresight in land purchase in the past. Two years ago when I addressed you I pointed out the difficulties of building foreign houses to give an adequate return on capital, and

I need not touch on this again. The problem is just as difficult now as it was then.

Land is certainly not less expensive to buy, and building costs show no signs of coming down.

REBUILDING

As I have pointed out before many of our older Chinese properties are nearing the end of their economic life and considerable rebuildings will have to be taken in hand each year. The rebuilding of Broadway Estate and Hanbury Road Estate so far has proved satisfactory. This year we have under contemplation the rebuilding of parts of Will's Estate and Chwang Hoong Estate. The increased rents from the new and improved Chinese houses on Will's Estate will be sufficient to make it unnecessary to draw on improvements and renewals for any part of the cost, but that part of Chwang Hoong Estate which must be taken in hand this year will need some assistance from this reserve.

DEBENTURES

Early in the year Tls. 400,000 of our 6% debentures, the final issue of the 1900 Trust, became time expired and were duly redeemed. During the year advantage was taken of a favorable market to issue further 6% debenture under the 1916 Trust to the extent of Tls. 1,250,000. The whole of these were taken up immediately Tls. 750,000 at a discount of 10% and Tls. 500,000 at a discount of 3%. The whole of the discount and brokerage on this entire issue amounting to Tls. 95,755 has been written off this year's Profit & Loss Account, this, in the opinion of your Board, being the soundest method of dealing with the matter.

ACCOUNTS

To turn to the accounts. These are presented very fully, and I need only make slight reference thereto.

Charges are decreased some Tls. 2,500. Salaries are increased Tls. 4,396, chiefly owing to the bonus to the staff voted at the last annual general meeting. Interest on Debenture is decreased by Tls. 19,073 due to the fact that the Tls. 400,000 were redeemed early in the year, whereas the new issue of Tls. 1,250,000 was considerably later, and a full year's interest had not to be paid thereon.

GROSS RENTS

Show a satisfactory increase of Tls. 113,106.56 while outgoings for repairs, insurance, taxes, etc., are increased only Tls. 6,576.91, giving a net increase in Rents of Tls. 106,529.65. Interest on mortgage less interest on Bank overdraft, this amount is Tls. 36,644.30 less than last year, owing to the fact that until we issued debentures we were working with a very considerable Bank overdraft.

PROFIT & LOSS ACCOUNT

There is I think no item which needs explanation, debenture discount and brokerage, and the profit on sales I have already dealt with. The balance for appropriation, viz.:—Tls. 465,558.69, is I think you will agree very satisfactory, especially in view of the fact that we are this year writing off the whole discount of our debenture issue.

THE BALANCE SHEET

Contains all the usual information. The increase in estate costs is dealt with in the report, and the only other item needing explanation is:—Improvements & Renewals Reserve—To this account has been credited a sum of Tls. 150,000, appropriated out of last year's profits and we have debited the account with Tls. 70,969.96, spent during the year principally on:—Comment and drain substituted for wood, re-roofing, road-making, electric wiring, but more largely on rebuilding and additions.

It is proposed this year to credit this account with a further Tls. 50,000 from the Profit & Loss Account. The policy of the directors is to keep this Reserve up to a substantial figure, so that necessary repairs and extraordinary repairs may be met from this account, thereby distributing the charge over several years rather than have very heavy repair charges without a reserve to meet them.

I think, Gentlemen, that practically covers all I have to tell you in accounts, but before sitting down, I should like to express the Board's appreciation of the good work done by the Staff during the year. It is, I need hardly say, largely due to their endeavours that the success of the Company depends. I have, therefore, to call to your attention to a special resolution which will be proposed later on authorizing your Directors to grant a bonus of 10 percent on the salaries of the Staff for the past year. This will absorb an amount of Tls. 3,590.

With these remarks I have much pleasure in proposing the adoption of the report and accounts, but before putting the resolution to the meeting, I shall be pleased to answer any questions to the best of my ability.

The careful mother will always safeguard her infant or young children against constipation. Care in feeding and the administration of Baby's Own Tablets when necessary are the best means of prevention and cure.
